

Stay Safe Arrive Alive

While driving you have to be very careful because anything could happen with you or anyone around you. Texting or drinking and driving can be life threatening, and are considered to be distracted driving. While people are driving you can't distract them because that could cause an accident. Seven years ago when my sister was about three months old my mom was going to my grandmas house with her. But she kept crying and crying distracting my mom while she was driving. She tried to keep looking at the road and not getting distracted, but then it got to the moment she thought she could quickly turn around and give her a bottle of milk. Reached for the bottle and gave it to my sister. When she turned back to look at the road she hit a truck. But the guy in the truck thought it was his fault, because he didn't have the blinker on when he was turning. There are many ways people can get into a car accident. Getting distracted or not turning a blinker on while turning. Cars have blinkers in them for a reason, one reason is for others to know where you are going or turning. Teenagers should mostly stay away from texting while driving. That could cause an accident or even death. One text could kill you or get you injured.
