

Designated Driver

I went out one Saturday night
To a party that was suppose to be out of sight
I promised my mom that I wouldn't drink
But it was so crazy that I couldn't even think
But remembering what my mom told me
I asked if I could have a Pepsi
By the time it was to leave
I was the only one there that was alcohol free
So getting in my car I felt completely safe
Compared to other people in that place
I wish I could go back to that night
And tried stopping them with all my might
But because I let my friend get into his car
His blood is now all over the tar
I've could have given him a ride
But now I'm sitting here listening to his mother cry
If only I had been thinking
That I was the only one not drinking
