

Think

Yes, tragedy can strike almost anywhere,
Especially to those who give no care.
Think of the lives around you that may be lost
To drive distracted, oh, think of the cost.

Tell me, is texting really worth,
Taking someone from this earth?
Think of the parents and their cries
Would you be able to dry their eyes?

Why would you try and test your fate?
Think of the chaos that you'd create,
Of ending a life, or maybe your own,
Think of the agony you could have sown.

Oh, why would you challenge death?
As time ticks by, we have less breath.
Why take it away with a single drink?
Life is more precious than you may think.

Drinking, driving, texting, Facebook
You may lose all with a single look
Think while you are on your phone today
Think of what you might have to pay.

Will it take the life of a human being
To open your eyes to what we have seen?
Think of the problems as you read this text
And how we hope that you won't be next.

So do us a favor, the next time you close your eyes
Think how much it would mean, if you'd arrive alive
