

Jack Richards

10/19/17

English 12 ADV.

Just Out For A Drive

You may think the idea of drinking and driving is not a big deal,
until it happens and it is so surreal.

It is a Saturday in late fall,
you think you have it all.

You can't resist the urge,
and you went on a drinking splurge.

You got in your car with a friend,
you didn't think it would be the end.

You are driving down the street,
your two cars meet.

It is a family of five,
just out for a drive.

They were not expecting you,
they didn't know what to do.

You went and crossed the line,
now all that's left is a shrine.

Your choice made you a killer,
you'll live with that forever.

Your decision to drink and drive,
ruined your life at twenty-five.