

Aiya and her boyfriend Jack have been stuck at her little brothers daycare for two hours because nobody there believed that Aiya was Tyler's brother. Tyler is only 2 years old so he could not really help their case. Finally Aiya got a hold of her mom and was able to leave with Tyler. Jack who is the one that drove was livid at this point because he was supposed to meet his friends for a football game an hour and a half ago. The first thing that Jack after he started the car was plug his phone in. Aiya's brother Matt called and asked her if she could pick Reece their little brother at football practice.

"I can't. I'm with Jack and Tyler right now and plus mom has the car. Why can't you?" she replied.

"Okay nevermind then i'm just with some friends right now, don't worry about it I got it. Love you bye" Matt said as he hung up.

Matt started to panic after this because he had to pick his brother up in less than 30 minutes and he was already a 6 pack of bud light down and another one he just opened in his hand.

"Alright guys I need to be out I gotta pick my brother up" he said standing up quickly and spilling the remaining Bud Light on himself.