

The road ahead is clear and black,
A journey waits with time to stay.
But in your hand, a glowing screen,
A brief look, unseen, unseen.

A message pops, a post to share,
A second ahead, you're unaware.
The brakes too late, the tires sound,
A crash, a flash, the pain is there.

A life now changed, a cruel destiny,
For a moment, lost in your mind.
A small choice, yet cost a lot,
A broken heart, a loss so deep.

So keep your hands on the wheel,
Stay safe, make this your choice.
No text, no calls are with a life,
Shattered dreams and sacrificed lives.

For the ones you love, those who wait,
For every life, don't risk their safety.
Stay away from your phone, control,
Being safe is your only goal.

No message sent, no answer call
Is worth your life, arrive alive.
